Homepage: Disgraced former Dallas Cowboys player Marion Barber is suing Michael Vick for $50 million, alleging he was a "violent" and "anti-social" player who bullied and threatened him in an effort to keep him off the field. In a lawsuit filed in Texas state court, filed by his attorneys at the law firm Hamilton Moses Lee LLP, Barber claims that Vick repeatedly threatened him and tried to keep him off the field to diminish his value. Barber, the brother of Washington Redskins wide receiver Roy Williams, played for the Cowboys from 2000-02 and is listed as having spent time in jail in 2000 for an assault and battery conviction. "Marion was bullied by Vick into a lifetime of silence, as he continued to utilize his well-known intimidating and abusive means to force Marion off the field and keep him off the field," the lawsuit states. "It is Marion's belief that Vick's power and authority over him increased during the course of the NFL season, and that Vick's method for controlling and dominating others changed when he was on the field. "Marion's exposure to Vick's behavior caused a lifetime of emotional trauma and mental anguish, resulting in his repeated incarceration. Vick has threatened and bullied Marion into a lifetime of silence, fear, and dysfunction." According to the lawsuit, Barber was paid $13.2 million for his services on the Cowboys team in 2000 and $23.8 million for the 2001 season. The lawsuit accuses Vick, an MVP candidate in 2001, of trying to force him to quit the team by making repeated phone calls to Barber's home and going to Barber's aunt's home in an attempt to intimidate Barber. Barber also says Vick bullied him at church and in the football-recruiting process. Vick played for the Atlanta Falcons in 2002 and signed with the Philadelphia Eagles as a free agent in 2003. The lawsuit also claims that Vick engaged in sexual and physical abuse while he played for the Philadelphia Eagles. The lawsuit claims that Vick hit his wife and tried to push her to the ground after she complained about him using drugs while they were married, and that his wife later sought a divorce because of it. It says that Vick's behavior was 94e9d1d2d9
